

North Carolina Adult Protection Network: User Policies

The North Carolina Adult Protection Network (APN) is an educational resource for professionals working in the field of aging and adult services in North Carolina, managed by the UNC-Chapel Hill School of Government. It is not a forum for general public expression.

By establishing an account on the APN, the user hereby agrees to abide by the following terms of use:

- User must post or upload only content that is consistent with the educational purpose of the APN.
- User may not post or upload any illegal, obscene, defamatory, abusive, threatening, or harassing content to the APN.
- User may not post or upload any content to the APN that advertises a product or service for commercial purposes or otherwise promotes a commercial activity.
- User may not post or upload any content to the APN that jeopardizes the integrity of the site.
- User may not impersonate another or otherwise misrepresent his or her identity on the APN.

The UNC-Chapel Hill School of Government reserves the right to remove posts or other content that, in its discretion, violates the above-stated policies. Consistent with the educational purpose of the APN, the School of Government also reserves the right to re-categorized content and to remove outdated or duplicative content at any time. A user may not be notified before content is removed or re-categorized.

If a user persists in violating any of the above-stated policies, the School of Government reserves the right to delete the user's account.

If you believe that a user has violated any of these policies, please contact Meredith Smith, Associate Professor of Public Law and Government, at meredith.smith@sog.unc.edu.

Public Records

All forms of content posted or uploaded to the APN are public records and may be subject to public access under the North Carolina public records law.
